Poet Robert Haas presents his "versions" of 300 haiku by three of the best practitioners of this literary form from different periods in Japanese history: Basho (17th Century), Buson (18th century), and Issa (19th century). Haiku is a poetic form that traditionally consists of three lines — one of five syllables, one of seven, and one of five — and presents one image, usually from common life in a specific place during a particular season.
